To Dyspeptics.

The most common signs of Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, are an oppression at the stomach, nausea, flatulency, water-brash, heart-burn, vomiting, loss of appetite, and constipation. Dyspeptic patients suffer untold miseries, bodily and mental. They should stimulate the digestion, and secure regular daily action of the bowels, by the use of moderate doses of Ayer's Pills.

After the bowels are regulated, one of these Pills, taken each day after dinner, is usually all that is required to complete the cure.

Ayer's Pills are sugar-coated and purely vegetable—a pleasant, entirely safe, and reliable medicine for the cure of all disorders of the stomach and bowels. They are the best of all purgatives for family use.

"OSTLER JOE."

BY GEORGE R. SIMS.

[" 'Ostler Joe' is the story of a village beauty, who ran away from her husband and became the Cora Pearl of London, finally dying an outcast wretch, but found on her death-bed by her faithful Joe, forgiven and dying in his arms.]

I stood at eve, as the sun went down, by a grave where a woman lies,
Who lured men's souls to the shores of sin with the light of her wanton eyes,
Who sang the song that the siren sang on the treacherous Lurley height,
Whose face was as fair as a summer day, and whose heart was as black as night.

Yet a blossom I fain would pluck to-day from the garden above her dust;
Not the languorous lily of soulless sin nor the blood-red rose of lust;
But a sweet white blossom of holy love that grew in the one green spot
In the arid desert of Phryne's life, where all was parched and hot.

* * * * * * * *

In the summer when the meadows were aglow with blue and red
Joe, the 'ostler of the Magpie, and fair Annie Smith were wed.
Plump was Annie, plump and pretty, with a cheek as white as snow;
He was anything but handsome, was the Magpie's 'ostler, Joe,

But he won the winsome lassie. They'd a cottage and a cow,
And her matronhood sat lightly on the village beauty's brow.
Sped the months and came a baby—such a blue-eyed baby boy!
Joe was working in the stables when they told him of his joy.

He was rubbing down the horses and he gave them then and there,
All a special feed of clover just in honor of the heir;
It had been his great ambition, and he told the horses so,
That the Fates would send a baby who might bear the name of Joe.

Little Joe the child was christened, and, like babies, grew apace,
He'd his mother's eyes of azure and his father's honest face.
Swift the happy years went over, years of blue and cloudless sky;
Love was lord of that small cottage, and the tempests passed them by.

Passed them by for years, then swiftly burst in fury o'er their home;
Down the lane by Annie's cottage chanced a gentleman to roam;
Thrice he came and saw her sitting by the window with her child,
And he nodded to the baby, and the baby laughed and smiled.

So at last it grew to know him—little Joe was nearly four;
He would call the "pretty gemplum," as he passed the open door,
And one day he ran and caught him, and in child's play pulled him in.
And what the baby Joe had prayed for brought about the mother's sin.

'Twas the same old wretched story that for ages bards have sung.
'Twas a woman weak and wanton and a villain's tempting tongue;
'Tas a picture deftly painted for a silly creature's eyes
Of the Babylonian wonders and the joy that in them lies.

Annie listened and was tempted; she was tempted and she fell,
As the angels fell from heaven to the blackest depths of hell;
She was promised wealth and splendor and a life of guilty sloth,
Yellow gold for child and husband—and the woman left them both.

Home one eve came Joe the 'ostler with a cheery cry of "Wife !"
Finding that which blurred forever all the story
She had left a silly letter—through the cruel scrawl he spelt,
Then he sought the lonely bedroom, joined his thorny hands and knelt.

"Now, O Lord, O God, forgive her, for she ain't to blame!" he cried;
"For I owt t'a seen her trouble, and a' gone away and died.
Why, a wench like her—God bless her!—'twa'n't likely as her'd rest,
With that bonny head forever on a 'ostler's ragged vest.

"It was kind o' her to bear me all this long and happy time,
So for my sake please to bless her, though you count her deed a crime;
If so be I don't pray proper, Lord, forgive me, for you see
I can talk all right to 'osses, but I'm nervous with Thee."

Ne'er a line came to the cottage from the woman who had flown.
Joe, the baby, died that winter, and the man was left alone.
Ne'er a bitter word he uttered, but in silence kissed the rod,
Saving what he told his horses; saving what he told his God.

Far away in mighty London rose the woman into fame,
For her beauty won men's homage, and she prospered in her shame;
Quick from lord to lord she flitted, higher still each prize she won,
And her rivals paled beside her as the stars beside the sun.

Next she made the stage her market, and she dragged Art's temple down
To the level of a showplace for the outcasts of the town,
And the kisses she had given to poor 'Ostler Joe for nought
With their gold and costly jewels, rich and titled lovers bought.

Went the years with flying footsteps while her star was at its height,
Then the darkness came on swiftly, and the gleaming turned to night,
Shattered strength and faded beauty tore the laurels from her brow;
Of the thousands who had worshipped never one came near her now.

Broken down in health and fortune, men forgot her very name,
Till the news that she was dying woke the echoes of her fame;
And the papers in their gossip mentioned how an "actress" lay,
Sick to death in humble lodgings, growing weaker every day.

One there was who read the story in a far off country place,
And that night the dying woman woke and looked upon his face.
Once again the strong arms clasped her that clasped her long ago,
And the wearied head lay pillowed on the breast of 'Ostler Joe.

All the past had be forgotten, all the sorrow and the shame;
He had found her sick and lonely, and his wife he now could claim.
Since the grand folks who had known her one and all had slunk away,
He could clasp his long lost darling, and no man would say him nay.

In his arms death found her lying, in his arms her spirit fled;
And his tears came down in torrents as he knelt beside her dead.
Never once his love had faltered through her base, unhallowed life;
And the stone above her ashes bears the honored name of wife.

* * * * * * * *

That's the blossom I fain would pluck to-day from the garden above her dust;
Not the languorous lily of soulless sin nor the blood-red rose of lust;
But a sweet white blossom of holy love that grew in the one green spot
In the arid desert of Phryne's life, where all was parched and hot.

UNCLE LYS' WILL.

[Ed Mott in New York Sun.]

"I see th't the Snuffy Snyder place is for sale," said the Old Settler, as he scratched a match on his trousers leg and lit his pipe. "That's a teaser of a farm, an' it's ben in the fam'ly fur better'n 100 year. I'm willin' to go the juice fur the crowd that th' hain't a man in the house knows how the place fust got inter the Snuffy Snyder fam'ly."

No one wanted to bet.

"Fur all th't this here story comes from the Injin times, it hain't got no Injins mixed up in it. Thick ez the Injins was, painters and b'ars and sich was jist ez thick, an' ez fur deer, my ol' pap usty say th't when a feller went fur a walk in the woods he had to keep a sharp lookout, 'cause deer kep' a-springin' up on all sides, an' the chances was th't in jumpin' to git out o' the way o' one comin' in one d'rection he were jist ez likely ez not to git right in front o' one comin' in t'other d'rection, an' be knocked t'other end up'ards. An' them deer was sassy ez billygoats, too, my ol' pap usty say.

"Up on the north edge o' Big Pepper swamp, 'bout them times, a passel o' folks from down in Jersey some'rs hed made a clearin'. Most of it b'longed to Ulyssus Peggy, a widderer. His wife's sister Huldy an' her stepdarter Kit kep' house fur him, Huldy havin' had a couple o' husban's or so, an' bein' a widder ag'in. Kit were a tol'able slick gal, jist a-comin' 18, an' in the market fur to hitch. 'Lys Pegger—they alluz called him 'Lys fur short—had a nephew livin' with him nämed Bill Groner. Bill were a six footer, with a red head, an', from all 'counts, he didn't brim over with popularity 'roun' the clearin'. He was a fighter, an' th' were only one thing he liked better'n a rough-an'-tumble, an' that were the widder's darter Kit. It so happened, though, b'gosh, th't Kit didn't see no partic'lar p'ints 'bout Bill. W'enever he tried to do the sweet aroun' her she alluz give him a big laugh, an' didn't cotton worth a cent. Kit kinder give her best looks to'rds a young chap that everybody liked, an' his name were Snuffy Snyder—leastways that's all the name he was ever knowed by. Snuffy wa'n't ez fat ez if he'd ben stall fed, not by no means. Fact o' the matter is, he had more bone th'n a button fact'ry; an' for sinner, gosh'lmighty! ye could ha' cut a raw-hide whip out'n any part of him. Bill Groner was amazin' jealous o' Snuffy, fur two reasons. Fust, 'cause Snuffy could sidle up to Kit an' she liked it, an' second, 'cause Snuffy had a bald head. Mebbe that mowt seem funny, boys, an' yer smile is 'scusable. But ye must 'member th't th' was Injins in them days, an' a bald head were considered 'bout the safest piece o' personal property a feller could carry with him. So, puttin' this an' that together, Bill Groner an' Snuffy Snyder wa'n't ez thick ez peas at a thrashin', not by a long shot.

"Nobody never doubted that w'en ol' 'Lys Peggy died the Widder Huldy an' Kit'd fall inter his shoes an' own the hull of his property. Jep Keyes had a few acres o' side-hill on the edge o' the clearin', an' he was cuttin' shines aroun' the widder. She didn't seem to hev no objections to addin' another name to them she'd had already, an' she rather give Jep to understan' th't, if things was agreeable, his'n 'd sound 'bout as well ez any on the end o' t'others. One day 'Lys Peggy were out choppin' trees, an' wh't should he do but let a big pine branch tumble plumb on him. Me an the Widder Huldy an' her darter Kit was left without no head to their house. Arter w'ile folks b'gun to poke aroun' an' ast questions 'bout 'Lys' will fur all they could l'arn th' didn't seem to be no will. Jep Keyes kep' a callin' on the widder, an' arter a month or so he thort th't mebbe th' wouldn't be nothin' out o' the way in him a kind o' easin' his own mind 'bout the will; so one night he says to Huldy that it didn't seem that it was so long sence Uncle 'Lys died, and Huldy said, No, it didn't. Then bimeby Jep said that he s'posed th't if Uncle 'Lys didn't leave no will th't Bill Groner'd git the clearin', and Huldy she says, Yes. Then bimeby Jep says good night, and never called on the widder ag'in. Then sure enough folks said, 'Th' hain't no will.'

"'Well, th' hain't,' says Huldy, 'bout that time grittin' her teeth; 'if that's all th't Jep Keyes is lookin' fur,' she says, 'little good it'll do him if th' is a will.'

"Then she went down in a chest an' took out a lot o' old clothes th't usty b'long to Uncle 'Lys, an' sorted 'em out. She sent 'em to a poor widder with four children, all but an ol' corduroy coat th't Uncle 'Lys usty set big store by, an' that un she chucked onter a bed, an' says:

"'I'll keep that un to 'member him by.'

"That same day Bill Groner says to the Widder Huldy th't he guessed th't plantatation was his'n, an' th't if Kit didn't marry him the both of 'em must pack up an git. Huldy told him to go an' see Kit. He tol' Kit w'at he'd said to her mam, an' she fared up an' says:

"'W'en th' hain't nothin' left o' Snuffy Snyder but his boots,' she says, 'then ye kin come to me an' I'll marry ye!'

"Arter Kit had tol' Bill Groner what she thort about marryin' him, she skipped up-stairs an' begun to beller. She know'd her an' her mam'd hef to cut sticks from thar, and whar in the wild-goose nation they was goin' to were more'n she could cipher out. W'ile she was boo-hooin' she looked out o' the winder an' see Snuffy Snyder comin' 'long with his b'ar trap on his shoulder, an' luggin' a hunk o' beef fur bait. She stuck her head out, an' ez good ez she could fur cryin' an' sobbin', she tol' Snuffy w'at were goin' on. Snuffy tol' her to cheer up, an' that ez soon ez he went down 'long the Swamp an' sot his b'ar trap he'd come back an' lick Bill out'n his boots, an' then go an' build Kit an' her mam a cabin on his own little clearin'.

"'An' say, Kit,' he says, 'it's gointer be colder'n Green'lan' t'night. Len' me an ol' coat o' some kind,' he says.

"Kit she looked 'roun' the room an' see the ol' corduroy coat th't the Widder Huldy had laid out to keep fur to member Uncle 'Lys by, an' ketchin' it up she chucked it out'n the winder to Snuffy, an' he toddled off to set his b'ar trap. The Widder Huldy had took t'other ol' clothes to poor little Mrs. Bole, an' come back 'bout an hour after Kit had give Bill Groner his answer. Kit tol' her mam all about it, and bellered harder'n ever.

"'An now we'll hef to go and live on Snuffy's stumpy lot,' she says, 'or else go out an' let the Injuns sculp us,' she says.

"The widder she bust out a-laughin'.

"'Not w'ile these here dockyments is a-layin' h'yer,' she says, turnin' 'roun' te git the ol' corduroy coat. 'Whar in the world is Uncle 'Lys' ol' coat th't was layin' on this h'yer bed?' she hollered, turnin' ez white ez a milestun.

"'I chucked it to Snuffy,' says Kit, slobberin' an' sniffin'.

"'Ye chucked it to Snuffy!' yelled the widder. 'Go an' git it!' she hollered. 'Go an' git it! Yer Uncle 'Lys' will is sewed up in that ol' coat, ye bellerin' idjit, an' if that's lost bring on yer sculpin' Injins!'

"Wal now, mebbe Kit wanted to be told more'n wunst to go fur that coat, but I don't think she did. She tore down to'rds the creek like a wild doe with the houn's on her track. She hadn't gone fur w'en she met Snuffy comin' back. He didn't have no ol' corduroy coat.

"'Whar's the coat?' Kit screamed, like a wildcat. Snuffy said, scareful like, that it wa'n't the coat he cared fur, but th't he'd tied his b'ar trap bait up in it, an' a big painter had come along an' snatched it, an' went off with it like a shot. Then my ol' father said th't if th' was ever a painter give such a yell as Kit did, he never heard it.

"Then she told Snuffy what was in the coat, and that now they mowt ez well all give up, for th' wa'n't nothin' left but wild Injins fur 'em to depend on. She told Snuffy never to come nigh her agin' till he ketched that painter an' fotched back Uncle 'Lys' will. Snuffy know'd th' was 'bout ez much chance o' that ez th' was o' climbin' a streak o' lightnin'. That painter hadn't never rested till he got safe an' sound in the big painter den on top o' Black Hole ridge, which had a mire hole with no bottom to it, forty foot wide, on one side of it, and a swamp on all the t'other sides that no livin' man had ever got in or out of. So Snuffy know'd it were all up with him an' Kit, an' he struck inter the woods on a dead run. W'en Kit got home she jist tol' her mother whar the coat an' Uncle 'Lys' will had gone, an' fainted away deader'n a groun' hog in Janiwery. W'en she come to her mam were standin' by her.

"'I were keepin' that air will hid till I could find out w'at Jep Keyes were hankerin' arter,' said the widder. 'I foun' out,' she says, 'an' now y've gone an an' throw'd the will away! Consekence is, my lady,' says the widder, 'th't you'll jist begin to rig yerself to marry Bill Groner, an' thar's an end on it!'

"'Not till th' hain't nothin' left o' Snuffy Snyder but his boots!' says Kit, an' went down-stairs to supper.

"Things went along fur a day of two. Snuffy hadn't show'd up, an' Kit begun to git worried. She nor the widder hadn't said a word 'bout the will an' the losin' of it, an' nobody know'd it. Long to'ard night on the second day, Jim Crane come in loaded down with whoppin' big painters, an' strung on his back along with 'em was a pair o' cowhide boots. They was Snuffy Snyder's an' no mistake.

"'I see the two painters a-tearin' along a mile south o' Black Hole ridge,' says Jim, 'an' both on 'em had suthin' stickin' out'n their mouths that seemed to bother 'em. I whanged both o' the varmints, an' they stopped in their tracks. W'en I went up to 'em I see that it was boots that was stickin' out o' their mouths clean from their throats. I yanked the boots out an' see that they was Snuffy Snyder's. Poor ol' Snuffy,' says Jim. 'Th' hain't nothin' left of him but his boots!'

"That took all the heart out o' Kit. Snuffy was gone, an' she didn't care now whether it were wild Injins or Bill Groner that hooked on to her. The day arter Jim Crane come in with Snuffy's remains, Bill he goes to Kit an' says, pleasant like:

"'Wall, Kit,' he says, 'th' hain't nothin' left of him but his boots. It's tough on Snuffy,' he says, 'but these is dangerous woods, an' a promise is a promise. We'll fasten this clearin' in the family nex' Saturday, by you an' me gettin' hitched.'

"Kit said it didn't make no differ'nce to her when it come off, an' went up-stairs and bellered some more. Her mam said it'd be a lesson to her, she guessed, an' l'arn her not to chuck her uncle's wills aroun' like chicken feed next time.

"The nex' Saturday were three days off, an' w'en it come there was quite a gatherin' at the Peggy clearin' to see Kit and Bill jined, 'Squire Filger had come clean in from the Dellywar flats to do the jinin'. In ten minutes more the jinin' 'd ha' ben commenced, but jist then a long, lank bushwhacker, barefooted, all dirt an' tatters an' a month or so, kinder stagger'd inter the getherin'. He had a role o' sumpin' under his arm. Kit was the only one th't made out the bundle o' bones an' rags to be Snuffy Snyder, an' she jist grabbed him in her arms an' hugged him till, my ol' pap says, ye could hear the bones crack.

"'Now bring on yer sculpin' Injins,' Kit hollered. 'Th' hain't no Bill Groner in mine!' she says.

"Snuffy took the bundle from in under his arm. 'Thar's yer Uncle 'Lys' ol' corduroy coat,' says he, 'th't ye sent me arter last week.'

"'An' h'yer's the dockyment,' says Kit, a-yankin' the will out'n the linin' whar it were sewed; 'h'yer's the dockyment ez says th't th' hain't nobody by th' name o' Groner agointer hand this h'yer clearin' down to no young uns o' his'n!' she says, an' she snipped the will under Bill's nose. 'How did ye ever ketch the painters, Snuffy?' she says, a-huggin' of him agin.

"Snuffy got outside of a hunk o' corn cake fust, an' told 'em all about it.

"'I went inter the woods,' he says, 'a-wishin' th't sumpin'd chaw me up. I drug myself along fur a mile or two, dodgin' a buck ev'ry little spell, w'en all of a suddent a great big buck come at me. I foun' to hev a rassel. I buckled inter him, an' the fust thing I know'd he gimme a h'ist on his horns, an' I come down straddle on his back, ez slick ez if I'd a got thar a purpose. That kinder s'prised the buck, an' 'fore I could chuck myself off, away he tore through the woods faster'n a hurrycane. I grabbed him by the the ears an' hung on. I didn't know whar we'd fetch up, an' I didn't keer a cuss. I guess we must ha gone four miles, licky-ty-split, through the timber, when I see Black Hole ridge loomin' up ahead of us.

"'By the grizzly king!' I says. 'He's pullin' plumb over fur the big mire-hole, an' we'll both both take a trip to'ards Chiny together.'

"'The buck kep' up like a fire in the woods, till his fore feet struck squar' on the edge o' the big mire-hole. Then he stopped ez if he'd run agin a mountain. I didn't. I kep' a-goin' right on an' up. I cleared that forty foot o' mire-hole, a turnin' summersets all th' time, way up in the air, an' then started fur terry firmy. Ez I were comin' down, I see th't I were goin' ter strike feet fust in an openin' in the top o' the ridge. I went inter that hole, like a stick in a well, fur more'n thirty foot, an' felt both feet strike inter sumpin' kinder soft like. It were blacker'n a b'ar skin down thar, an' ez soon ez I struck th' come such a yell ez made me deef an' dumb. The nex' minute I was topped over on my back, an' felt myself startin' up that hole feet first, like draggin' a pig out'n a scaldin' bar'l. I grabbed fur sumpin' to ketch hold on ez I started, down in the bottom o' the hole, an' what I grabbed went along with me. W'en I got to the top I see I had been yanked out o' thar by two two big painters. They had been at the bottom o' the hole, an' see me comin' down through the air, so they jist got in under me an' stood with their mouths open to take me in. I shot down like a fallin' star, an' one foot went kersouse inter one painter's mouth, an' t'other foot sloshed right inter t'other painter's mouth, an' thar they was. They was almost skeert to death, an' whizz! they went out o' the den, draggin' me with 'em. My feet had planted theirself clean inter the painters' throats, an' if my boots hadn't ha' come off jist as I was took to the top I'd ha' been drug' round' that swamp like a harrow. Ez it was, kobizz! went the painters off inter the swamp, an' thar I laid at the mouth o' the den. Bimeby I looked to see what it was that I had kotched on to down in the painter den, an', lo and behold ye! thar was Uncle 'Lys' corduroy coat that I had my b'ar bait in, an' in it were the dockyments safe an' sound. An' now, says Snuffy, 'if ev'rything's agreeable, me and Kit'll jist stan' up afore the 'Squire an' let the perceedings perceed.'

"So Kit an' Snuffy was hitched, an' that's the way, boys, that the clearin' came to git inter the Snuffy Snyder fam'ly."

"Ye didn't tell us, major, said the 'Squire, 'how Snuffy got out'n Black Hole ridge an' out'n [illegible] swamp."

"Wall, 'Squire," said the [illegible] my poor ol' father [illegible] he'd never let that git [illegible] died with him. Come, [illegible] W'at'll it be?"

An End to Bone Scraping.

Edward Shepherd, of Harrisburg, Ill., says: "Having received so much benefit from Electric Bitters, I feel it my duty to let suffering humanity know it. Have had a running sore on my leg for eight years; my doctors told me I would have to have the bone scraped or leg amputated. I used, instead, three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and my leg is now sound and well."

Electric Bitters are sold at fifty cents a bottle, and Bucklen's Arnica Salve at 25c. per box by A. B. Armstrong.

ON THE ENGINE.
Running a Locomotive While Deadly Sick.

TAUNTON, MASS.
Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

DEAR SIR: I am an engineer on the Old Colony Railroad, and run the Fall River boat train between Fall River and Lowell, residing in Taunton. For ten years I suffered everything but death from dyspepsia. Often I had such blinding sick headaches that I could hardly see. I think this was due partly to irregular habits of eating and partly to the jar of the engine.

Remember that I had tried every medicine I heard of and had been treated by some of the best physicians in Taunton and Lowell. At this critical time Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy was recommended to me. It was new to me, and with my experience of medicine, you can easily forgive me for saying that I had but a particle of faith in it.

I had taken it but a few days when I began to get better. The raw and sore feeling left my stomach and the gnawing pains left my head, and soon I was all right and have been ever since. It is the only thing that ever did me the least good, and it drove every ache, pain and discomfort completely out of my body. I now keep KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY with me on my engine, and it goes wherever I go.

Why, I believe Favorite Remedy will cure anything. One night a while ago John Layton, an engineer who runs the main line boat train from Boston, came on my engine sick as death. He was worn out with work, had a high fever, and was so nervous he almost broke down crying. "Nonsense, John," I said, "cheer up, I've got something on my engine that will fix you up in a jiffy." I took out my bottle of "Favorite Remedy," and gave him a good dose. He went to bed. Two days after I saw him looking healthy as a butcher. "Dan" he said, "what was that stuff you gave me the other night?" "It was DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, Rondout, N. Y.," I said. "Well, I don't care whose remedy it is, it's the thing for a man on the railroad." So say we all.

Yours, etc., DANIEL FITTS.

It is your own fault if you suffer from headache, indigestion or dyspepsia. $1 will buy a bottle of Favorite Remedy and cure you.

Physicians Have Found out

That a contaminating and foreign element in the blood, developed by indigestion, is the cause of rheumatism. This settles upon the sensitive sub-cutaneous coverings of the muscles and ligaments, causing pain, and aggregating as a calcareous, chalky deposit which produces stiffness and distortion of the joints. No fact, which experience has demonstrated in regard to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, has stronger evidence to support than this, namely, that this medicine of comprehensive uses checks the formidable and atrocious disease, nor is it less positively established that it is preferable to the poisons often used to arrest it, since the medicine contains only salutary ingredients. It is also a signal remedy for malarial fevers, constipation, dyspepsia, kidney and bladder ailments, debility and other disorders. See that you get the genuine.

My mother is eighty-three years of age, and has suffered greatly with rheumatism. In fact shee was quite helpless, being unable to move about the house. A lady friend induced her to try Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. She did so and found almost immediate relief. The power of this medeine to do good extends to all ages and a wide range of complaints. You cannot possibly regret having purchased it. Remember that rheumatism cannot be cured externalley.

A Valuable Testimony from Mr. F. Towner, of East Sharon, Potter county, writes under date of March 10, 1886: Dear Sir: I had been suffering from a Dropsical affection, being badly bloated and bothered for breath, not having been able to work since the first of January, but your agent, Mr. H. Presher, of Shingle House, Pa., called on me, and I purchased of him one bottle of your Great Blood Remedy. Since using it I find my health very much better, and confidently recommend it to all who are suffering from similar difficulty, or ill health.

Dennis' Home Remedies are all first-class and warranted to do good or money refunded.

ONE night a while ago John Layton, who runs the main line boat train from Boston, came on my engine sick as death. He was so feverish and nervous he almost cried. "Cheer up, John," says I, "and I'll fix you in a jiffy, and I gave him a good dose of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy." He went to bed. Two days after I saw him looking strong as a butcher. "That's the stuff for a railroad man," he said.—Daniel Fitts, Engineer Old Colony Railroad.

SECRETARY MANNING is a very sick man, but his physicians entertain hopes of his ultimate recovery.

THE great western strike is to all appearances on its last legs. Jay Gould and the head men of the Knights of Labor are coming to an understanding.

THEM all the Pennsylvania exchanges received at this office for a week past are lying about Col Quay, he returned from his Florida deer-slaughtering trip about a week ago.

BARNEY MCAULEY better known as the commedian "Uncle Dan'l" in the play of "A Messenger from Jarvis Section," died in New York on Tuesday last. He was a very popular actor but at the same time a slave to rum which undoubtedly hastened his death He was 45 years of age.

CAPTAIN NUTT, the cashier of the State Treasury under Gen Bailey, who was murdered by Dukes in Uniontown, was short in his accounts $12,500 at the time of his death Oil speculation the cause. Luckily for Bailey there was sufficient oil in the hands of his brokers to satisfy the shortage.

SENATOR DAVIES is reported as saying that "Gen. Beaver has given me personal assurance that I should be given the second place." We do not believe such arrant nonsense was ever uttered by Mr. Davies. Gen. Beaver will have all he can do to take care of himself let alone proposing to carry any more of the "old ticket" with him. Senator Davies would be an acceptable candidate to the republicans of this section of the state, but what will militate against him is location. If Gen. Osborne is re-nominated for congressman-at-large the lieutenant governor must come from west of the mountains. It looks very much at this time as though the east would capture four out of five of the candidates on the state ticket. That will certainly be the case unless there is a unity of action among the western delegates.

ROSCOE CONKLING'S ONE PURPOSE.

Roscoe Conkling is not only averse, pronouncedly, to the proposition that he shall enter the struggle for Warner Miller's place, he goes farther in his show of stubbornness—he absolutely refuses to re-enter politics at all. Within a few days three personal, intimate friends have told me that he has now no other purpose in life than to gain a competence against old age. It has been truly said that he was ruined through endorsements of the notes of a friend, but to understand his present situation it should be known that when he resigned his seat in the senate to come to New York, at least so he said to his friends at the time. To-day it is said that the senate committee investigating Jake Sharp pays him $250 a day, and he himself is announced that he is making $100,000 a year.—Boston Herald

Arbor Day Preparations.

Governor Pattison has issued the following proclamation

In compliance with a concurrent resolution of the General Assembly, approved the 15th day of March, A. D., 1885, I do hereby appoint Thursday, the 15th day of April, A. D., 1886, to be observed throughout the Commonwealth as Arbor Day, and I recommend that the people do on that day, plant trees and shrubbery in public school grounds and along public highways throughout the Commonwealth.

Given under my hand and the great seal of this Commonwealth this twenty-seventh day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty six, and of the Commonwealth the one hundredth and tenth.

LITERARY NOTES.

A NEW DEPARTURE IN THE LIBRARY MAGAZINE

The April issue of the Library Magazine, containing its usual variety of current literature of the highest order announces that with its next issue radical changes will take place. It will thereafter be published weekly instead of monthly Without increase in price it will give an increased amount of valuable literature, and great gain in freshness and timeliness will be possible. The form of the page will be somewhat smaller so that the numbers and the bound volumes, particularly, will be more convenient. A fact that is probably without precedent in the history of periodical is evidence is stated by the publisher, viz that it is necessary frequently to reprint large editions of the back volumes, running as far back as 1879. This is certainly a very extraordinary certificate of the high character of the Magazine. A most important addition to the attractions of the Magazine in its new form will be a literary review and news department, which will supply information concerning all that is new and of interest in the world of literature, freed from the vast amount of trivial matter and mere publisher's notices which commonly make up a large portion of the contents of literary journals—in a word this department is meant to be conducted distinctly in the interest of the readers of books, instead of in the interests of the publishers of books—which will certainly be a new departure in literary journalism. A specimen copy of the Magazine in its new form will be sent free to any applicant John B. Alden, Publisher, 393 Pearl St., New York City. P. O. Box 1227.

A UNIQUE CYCLOPEDIA.

An extremely valuable cyclopedia, and of very great popular interest is Alden's Cyclopedia of Universal Literature, volume III, of which is just published. Novel in plan, and novel in form, at once beautiful and convenient, and at a price low even compared with Mr. Alden's always low prices, this volume gives in its nearly 500 pages biographical sketches of one hundred and eleven prominent authors, with characteristic selections from their writings. The following authors, among others, appear in this volume. Anacreon, St. Augustine, D'Aubigne, Bacon, Balzac, Bancroft, Banim, Barbauld, Beaumont, Beecher (several of the name), Bentham, Blair, Bjornson, Black (William), Blackstone, Blessington (Countess of), and Boccaccio; thus representing nearly all ages and all nations even in this volume—American, English, French, German, Italian, Greek, Latin, Swedish, Portuguese, Scotch, Dutch, Irish, Norwegian, and Danish authors—from the period 500 B. C. to A. D. 1885. The literary and mechanical workmanship are both of a high order. The work is really one that ought to find a place in every home library; it offers a fund of entertainment and instruction that will prove well-nigh inexhaustible. The price, only 60 cents a volume, makes its possession possible even to nearly every school-boy. The work is published also in parts of 160 pages each (each arrangeable at any time for bound volumes), which are sent post-paid for 15 cents each. Every reader of this notice ought to get at least a specimen part for examination. JOHN B. ALDEN, Publisher, New York.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our regular correspondent.)

The ball that was set in motion for a world's exposition in Washington continues to roll. A committee of 150 citizens has taken the matter under consideration, and will urge congress to provide for the celebration here of the centennial anniversary of the adoption of the constitution of the United States in 1889, and also the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America in 1892

It is held that the most appropriate manner for the nation to celebrate these historical events would be the establishment in this city, upon the ample reservations which extend from the capitol to the national observatory, of a permanent exposition In this the exhibits of the arts, industries and resources of the republic could be gathered, and the states and territories should have permission to erect permanent buildings in which their contributions could be placed. Space would also be granted to the governments of Central and South America to do likewise, thus presenting in Washington a miniature view of the greatness and resources of the western hemisphere The plan is to prepare for such a celebration in 1889 to be subsequently enlarged to a more comprehensive exhibition in 1892

At a meeting for the discussion of this subject a committeeman wanted to know first, what the District of Columbia would do Another replied that it was not proposed that the disfranchised citizens of the district should contribute a cent to the proposed exposition They were like children who were permitted to play in the government's back yard An other thought that the best exhibition the district could make would be to show its own helplessness It was needed as a bad example Washington was simply a resting place for the government, being devoted to department work and social excitement There is no industry or commerce and it was needed He had observed that all the fine statutes in the city were of army and navy officers There is just one that of Robert Fulton and his model, in the capitol representing men who have done something to advance the industrial interests of this country He thought that if an exhibition such as the one proposed was held it would stimulate energy and trade throughout the country If a person could come to Washington and there see the resources of the various states and territories it would help them

Dr Loring indorsed the project of the permanent exposition because he believed in industry as a stimulant to enterprise The district is the place where a man can come to learn the most It is true that there are no mills no strikes or prospects of them unless members of congress strike and no industrial controversies The industries of the country are represented in congress. Nowhere can the diverse industries of trade and industry be studied so advantageously as in Washington

Senator Frye of Maine expressed himself warmly in favor of a permanent exposition in Washington The city, he says, is in itself a permanent exposition for the education and edification of the people of the United States and of the world Every intelligent move for its improvement and embellishment has this in view

The proposition to change inauguration day and with it the closing day of congress from the 4th of March to the 30th of April will it is hoped soon receive the consideration at the hands of our law makers It is becoming more and more evident with every year that the present limit of the alternate or short session of each congress leaves insufficient time for the transaction of necessary public business. Congress assembles early in December, and almost before it begins vacation then it is the fifteenth of January before work is fairly resumed, thus leaving only about six weeks before the termination of the session The result is hasty and ill considered legislation appropriation bills rushed through without inquiry, or defeated without due examination and general and unsatisfactory and unsafe disposition of the people's affairs

It would be a very great improvement in every way if the closing day of congress were set back to April 30th thus giving fifty seven days more to the session and affording opportunity for material improvement in the volume and quality of legislation

That would be a much better time in which to celebrate the inauguration of our presidents also The fourth of March comes at a time at the most disagreeable period of the year Every inauguration day attracts greater crowds to the capital and there is every reason why the occasion should be transferred from the inclement month of March to the last of April when gracious and balmy weather may reasonably be expected R

MONDAY APRIL 19, 1886, 1 o'clock p. m.,

All that tract or parcel of land situate in the township of Corydon, McKean county and state of Pennsylvania being the same lot is covered by warrants number 3793, 3112 and 3795 each containing and covering one thousand one acres of land with the allowances which lands were formerly owned by Francis Drexel and by the estate of said Drexel conveyed to George L. Denton and Thomas Chattle.

The above three warrants well timbered mostly of the timber being oak with some hard wood.

Seized, taken in execution and will be sold as the property of George L. Denton, Mary Denton, Thomas Chattle and John F. Chattle at the suit of F. B. Denton, executor of Samuel Denton, deceased.

Shirley & Hastings, attorneys.

A. T. BANNON, Sheriff.

The first of the Plate Engravings Illustrating the Homes of Our Former Presidents, which the American Agriculturist is preparing at great expense, will appear as a supplement to the May number. It represents the Home, Farm and Rural surroundings of Jefferson. The accompanying description is by James Parton. The others will follow in succession. These Special Engravings by the first American Artists, and Special Descriptions by the most eminent of living American authors, are furnished free to all subscribers. The price of the American Agriculturist is $1.50 a year. We will club it with the MINER at $2.25. [illegible] every number is complete [illegible] can be got at any time. Send to 751 Broadway, New York, for any further particulars required regarding paper and engravings, directing to David W. Judd, Publisher.

Pigeons are about as scarce as hen's teeth in this section.

Wonder what April snow storms will bring forth in May. Fair weather?

[illegible] shove their legs under sheriff Brennan's table every three times a day.

Mrs. Bergstresser offers her valuable hotel property in this borough for sale [illegible] another [illegible].

Smith Gifford has got a large stock of [illegible] in his pond, the result of the recent fresh.

It begins to look as if Kane was going to be the future oil metropolis of North America.

The wind on Wednesday night succeeded in uprooting several apple trees in this place.

Marvin and Potato creeks overflowed their banks this week to the delight of the log drivers.

D. S. Forsyth has been distributing the triennial assessment lists this week with a lavish hand.

The lowlands in this section were completely submerged by water on Wednesday and Thursday.

Work on Vickery & Ogilvie's new grist mill on Water street is progressing as rapidly as the weather will admit.

Judge W. D. Brown, of Warren, held an argument court in the St. James parlors, Bradford, several days this week.

The man who is bent on gaining a pugilistic reputation commences wrong when he knocks down and kicks young boys.

Men were kept busy all day Wednesday in protecting the Marvin street bridge from being swept away by the high water and logs.

McKean county can boast of one of the finest soldiers' monuments to be found anywhere. It is indeed an elaborate memorial.

Don Beattie, who has lived for some time past in the [illegible] Burdick house, has moved into the bakery building, on Mechanic street.

Sheriff Brennan escapes to the front to-day with one of the shortest sheriff's sales on record, but notwithstanding its brevity there is millions in it.

A. T. Palmer is certainly a public benefactor, for he is introducing in this section some of the finest western horses that country affords.

Why don't some of our high-toned young literary minds compile a history of Smethport? Such a work would meet with a ready sale without a doubt.

One of our exchanges startled us by the announcement last week that its editor was suffering from a slight cold. We extend our condolence to that afflicted editor.

J. G. Strong, of East Smethport, was among the number who received a ducking this week. In trying to walk the plank he slipped and fell in and — got wet all over.

We hear the grade will all be taken out of Main street before the spring campaign is over. Even now that thoroughfare looks considerably flatter than a pancake.

Any sportsman who is heartless enough to kill off every little bird that is unfortunate enough to get within reach of his gun should be made to feel the severity of the law.

J. G. Strong, Esq., of East Smethport, is meeting with success in the sale of his emery wheel. It looks as though his business might grow into an industry of no mean pretensions.

Mr. Kel Richmond has purchased and taken possession of the residence formerly owned by Mrs. [illegible] on [illegible] street. This is a very desirable property and Mr. Richmond was fortunate in securing it.

There is some talk of doing away with the flight of stone steps which leads up to the pavement on the court house lawn and putting in a sort of "[illegible]" starting in with a pavement at the two front corners of the Court House grounds.

The MINER this week contains twelve and a half columns of legal advertisements, which rather encroaches on the space usually devoted to news matter. It will not always be thus, and then we can pay more attention to our local columns.

It is rumored that H. L. Watson, the enterprising Main street grocery man, will soon dispose of his business in this place and leave us. We should be sorry to lose Mr. Watson, but as he is one of the stirring ones he is sure to meet with success wherever he may locate.

The weather wise ones, or at least a portion of them, have been busy of late prophesying an unusually early spring. There is nothing to prevent it that we know of, but settled weather will be of more consequence to the men who have invested in a large stock of plows.

— On Tuesday last Dr. Freeman, assisted by Dr. Wells, removed an ugly looking tumor from the side of Mr. A. J. McIntyre, of Custer City. The operation was performed at the Bergstresser House in this place, and in less than two hours the patient was out on the street, which shows that the old soldier had nerve after all.

If the majority of one-horse writers in the infancy of journalism, could realize the fact that printers are not super-human, if they would put in practice these realizations, and be a little more careful in their compositions, they would be doing good to the printer fraternity in general and save many a curse on their luckless heads.

We are to be again favored with Carrie Stanley's talent in the drama, on the evenings of April 5th and 6th. This will be a first class treat to the inhabitants of Smethport. If Miss Stanley could only present one of the late comic operas, as for instance the Mikado, it would be appreciated immensely. But perhaps we will have to resort to home talent.

Mr. Geo. S. Wood, our enterprising baker, is about to move to Waverly, N. Y., where a fine opening is offered him and where he proposes to carry on the bakery business on a much larger scale than he has been doing here. We are sorry to part with him and his estimable family. May success be his good fortune wherever he locates, is the wish of his many warm Smethport friends.

— Read "Outlaw Joe" on the first page of this paper.

— An argument court will be held in Bradford, commencing next Tuesday.

— A. T. Palmer returned from his western trip the fore part of the week, bringing with him a car load of horses and has already made a number of sales.

— Al. Prince has just received an invoice of those celebrated count oysters which he has so long supplied this market with. They are altogether too good to keep.

— Want of space compels us to leave out, this week, the W. C. T. U. column and Parson McCabe's reply to [illegible] Price on church extension. We hope to do better hereafter.

— The committee of arrangements appointed at the monument meeting on Monday evening request that the committee on speakers and invitations meet with them at the court house on Saturday evening at half past seven o'clock.

— We will bet one of Palmer's Ohio horses against the [illegible] that no man or woman in this community can correctly solve the following problem: A man sells a horse for $40, buys it back for $30, and afterwards sells it for $50. How much does he make on the transactions?

During the session of the Methodist Conference just closed at Philadelphia, the fact was developed that there were from [illegible] preachers [illegible]

Monument Meeting.

A number of the citizens of Smethport met in the office of Backus & Gorton on Monday night last for the purpose of initiating proceedings for the unveiling of the soldiers' monument. The meeting was organized by the election of Hon. [illegible] as chairman and Sheridan Gorton, Esq., as secretary.

On motion Tuesday the 1st day of June was designated as the day for unveiling the monument and decorating the graves of the soldiers of Rose Hill Cemetery in this place.

On motion the chair appointed the following committees:

To select speakers for the day — Messrs. [illegible] Rogers, D. D. Hamlin and Robert M. Rose.

On Invitations — Messrs. Sheridan Gorton, H. L. Burlingame and C. M. Smith.

Committee of Arrangements — Messrs. R. E. Wright, W. J. Milliken, S. J. Gifford, C. S. King and John N. Apple.

This committee was authorized to appoint additional committees if found necessary.

On motion the meeting adjourned to be reconvened at the call of the chairman of the committee of arrangements.

THE KANE FIELD.

THE TOWN IS BOOMING—ALL ON ACCOUNT OF OIL.

Three New Towns Surveyed Out—Hazelwood, Beech Ridge and Queen City.

Special to the MINER.

KANE, PA., March 31—The field as it is to-day, has surprised many. When first opened up, it was conceded by many that it would not be a prolific one. But great was their mistake, as she now gives at this writing, a daily production, on an average, of 2,500 barrels, which exceeds largely that estimated by some of the old "oil hunters." But as one cannot believe what they hear, on this subject it is useless for one to give a [illegible] and relate every little remark of a [illegible] nature that has been indulged in since the Craig & Co. [illegible] mystery and the opening up of the field in November 1885. When the B. & B. well on [illegible] was opened up the cloud of disappointment that covered the field on account of the [illegible] and Beaman & Howe gassers, soon disappeared and all the clouds of distrust that were felt was soon taken up and operations commenced as soon as teams could get lumber, boilers, drilling tools, etc. [illegible]

[illegible] Three new towns have been laid out since the excitement first commenced and Jo-Jo has been built up. The first one we will note is West City. This town is just one mile from [illegible] directly north of the Craig & Co. [illegible] No. 1. Queen City boasts of a good hotel already, which is owned and conducted by W. M. Wright, formerly one of the proprietors of the Jo-Jo City [illegible]. There is also a dry goods and grocery store in course of erection [illegible] Mr. J. D. Bassett [illegible] Monday next. Several other buildings are [illegible] Mr. M. W. Moffitt has the plan of the town.

Another thief broke into a room in the [illegible] Kane House, where the [illegible] were kept and swiped them [illegible]

M. J. D. Bassett has [illegible] his position [illegible]

[illegible] Marion, late [illegible] has purchased [illegible] Hazelwood, formerly Swamp Lodge, 2 miles west of Kane and will erect a building for the purpose of carrying on the mercantile business.

E. D. Walker, formerly operator at the Western Union office at this place, has accepted a position on the editorial staff of the Warren Daily Mirror. We congratulate [illegible] a better selection could not have been made.

Messrs. M. Self, of Warren, and Dick Donovan, of Irvington, were in town a few days last week negotiating with George Walker for the purchase of his hotel property. Up to this writing we were unable to learn if a sale was effected.

Last Thursday night some thief or thieves broke into [illegible] store in the Craig & [illegible] block and stole a lot of jewelry. The robbery was committed while the proprietor was attending an entertainment at the opera house and between the hours of 8 and 10 o'clock.

The pigeons have come again to our [illegible] sportsmen [illegible]. But few have been slaughtered thus far here, as they keep at a good safe distance from the ammunition [illegible] They are [illegible] by responsible parties being slaughtered at a wholesale rate in Forest county on their old nesting ground.

[illegible] has got his barn finished and everything in good running order. He has some fine turnouts and very trusty horses, and with the aid of his very genial and accommodating hostlers, and moderate prices will cater to the wants of the public in this branch of business. A call will convince you that what we say is true.

The new building for the manufacture of lamp black is nearly completed and is being pushed as rapidly as the weather will permit. Messrs. Rockwell and [illegible], the enterprising proprietors of the establishment [illegible] a new process, and having [illegible] found it necessary to erect a suitable building for manufacturing it in large quantities, hence the building now in course of erection back of the P. & E. R. R. scale house. Success gentlemen. Kane again wins two good citizens.

Parties in want of sap buckets will find it to their interest to call on L. W. Mason, as he has several hundred on hand that will be sold to suit the buyer.

NORWICH NOTES.

No preaching in the Union church last Sunday.

A. P. Brewer is making some of that delicious maple syrup.

Mrs. Wm. Altire, who has been on the sick list, is able to be about again.

J. Colegrove has donated $25 toward the soldiers' monument, which is being erected at Smethport.

Mrs. Kate, wife of engineer John K. McKonicky, of Coudersport, is visiting her parents at Colegrove.

S. W. Johnson has gone to Cleveland (not Clermont) to make preparations for moving his family to Smethport.

People will be glad to learn that Mrs. Wilson, wife of the operator, who has been ill for a long time, is getting better.

School closed at Hamlin last Friday and the teacher, Mrs. Jennie Reed, left for her home in Port Allegany on Saturday.

C. R. Burdick's clerk, who went to Smethport to consult a physician and was thought to be dying there, is likely to recover.

The infant son of Stephen Marsh, of Christian Hollow, who has been very low with inflammation of the lungs, is nearly well again through the skillful care of Dr. R. J. Sharp, of Smethport.

There will be a sugar party at the residence of J. Colegrove Friday evening, April 2d, proceeds to be given toward the purchase of a Sunday school library, which is much needed here. A goodly quantity of Mr. Brewer's maple syrup, which speaks for itself, has been engaged for the season and a sweet time is anticipated. All are cordially invited.

C. A. Anderson has engaged Frank Lindholm, formerly in the employ of the late John Digel of Hamlin, to assist him in his store and postoffice in place of his present partner, who is soon to take his departure for Mt. Jewett. Mr. Lindholm was much esteemed by the people here for his good habits and sterling qualities, and will be gladly welcomed as an abiding citizen of Colegrove.

A Move in the Right Direction.

Mr. Geo. R. Brownell of this place is endeavoring to create an interest in a subject which is deserving of more than a passing notice. Those who watch their movements are of the opinion that there will be a large nesting of pigeons this spring somewhere on the headwaters of Potato creek. There is a statute in this state which prohibits the hunting of pigeons within a mile of their nesting ground and it is this statute that Mr. Brownell wants to see enforced. Every citizen who possesses a spark of humanity should unite with him in this laudable undertaking. The following letter on the subject was received by Mr. Brownell a few days since, and we publish it for the purpose of showing that there are people in the county who propose to see the law on the subject lived up to:

BRADFORD, March 28, 1886.

GEO. R. BROWNELL, Esq.—Dear Sir:—I learn that pigeons are flying in the vicinity of Smethport and are apparently about to nest somewhere in this county. The Bradford Shooting Club, believing that if the law which provides that "there shall be no shooting, killing or trapping of pigeons within a mile from such nesting ground" is enforced the pigeons will remain until they hatch two or three broods and that there will be good shooting in almost any week [illegible] part of the county, will attempt [illegible] law is enforced. [illegible] this a fund will be raised [illegible] which the sheriff will be asked to appoint, and whose duty it will be to arrest and bring to trial all who violate this law, whether they are [illegible]

We [illegible] from experience that unless [illegible] the pigeons will be driven from the [illegible] ground [illegible] have good shooting for two or three months. What do you think of the plan, and how do sportsmen in your vicinity like the idea? We shall probably have a meeting of the club on Tuesday or Wednesday [illegible] to which all persons, whether members of the club or not, will be invited. Should be glad to hear from you before that time. Also give any information you may have as to the whereabouts of pigeons, etc.

Yours very truly,

D. I. SEELEY,

Secretary Bradford Shooting Club.

The following is Mr. Brownell's reply to the foregoing letter:

SMETHPORT, PA., March 29.

MR. D. I. SEELEY, Secretary of Bradford Gun Club:—Your letter of 28th received this morning and contents noted. There has been quite a large body of pigeons on the head of Potato creek in the vicinity of their old nesting ground but they did not roost or feed in this locality, and the old pigeoners who have followed them for years seem to think that they intend to nest here again. Thursday the birds left the creek and we have been telegraphing to find where they have gone. Saturday we received a dispatch from Marienville saying that the birds are roosting and feeding on Spring creek, in Forest county. There have been but a few birds killed here. We have examined the eggs taken from some of them and find them to be about the size of No. 2 buck shot and the pigeoners say from the size of these eggs that these birds will not be ready to nest for a week yet. We have heard that the Tennessee birds have hatched and we are now looking for this body of birds. There are a number of pigeoners as well as local shooters in this vicinity who are anxious to have the birds protected. The pigeoners are going to raise a purse to hire two or three parties to watch the nesting and arrest any and all parties who violate this law. They have asked us shooters to contribute something, and to assist them all we can in enforcing the law. I saw some of the pigeoners from up the creek this morning and they seemed pleased to think that the Bradford Gun Club will assist them in protecting the birds. They will inform us as soon as they come back on the creek and we will let you know if they commence nesting here and also inform you should there be any good shooting in this vicinity if they do not nest here.

Respectfully, etc.,

GEO. R. BROWNELL.

The Monument Meeting.

The meeting held in Backus & Gorton's office on Monday evening, an account of which is given in another place, selected Tuesday, June 1st, as the day for celebrating the unveiling of the soldiers' monument which is now being erected in the Court House square. Saturday, May 29, has been designated by the G. A. R. department of Pennsylvania as Decoration day, the 30th coming on Sunday. The monument belongs to all the people of the county, and the unveiling of it should be witnessed, not only by the several G. A. R. posts, but by the military and civic organizations and the people generally of the entire county. Speakers from abroad will be here to address the people, the committee entertaining strong hopes that the old war governor, Curtin, will be one of them. Department Commander Gobin of the G. A. R. with his staff will undoubtedly be present besides other distinguished gentlemen from different sections of the country. The running arrangements of the trains from Philadelphia, Washington and Harrisburg are such, that to reach this place on Monday before night via P. & E. railroad is out of the question without coming as far as Emporium on Saturday. For this reason perhaps more than for any other Tuesday, instead of Monday, was settled upon as the day for unveiling the monument and decorating the graves in this place.

A Word to Workers.

If your vocations are mentally or physically laborious, if they subject you to exposure in inclement weather, if they confine you to the desk, and are of a nature to involve wear and tear of brain and nervous strain, you may occasionally require some renovating tonic. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the article for you. It stimulates the failing energies, invigorates the body and cheers the mind. It enables the system to throw off the debilitating effects of undue fatigue, gives renewed vigor to the organs of digestion, arouses the liver when inactive, which it very often is with people whose pursuits are sedentary, renews the jaded appetite and encourages healthful repose. Its ingredients are safe, and its credentials, which consist in the hearty endorsement of persons of every class of society, are most convincing. Admirably is it adapted to the medical wants of workers.

Food for the brain and nerves that will invigorate the body without intoxicating, is what we need in these days of rush and worry. Parker's Tonic restores the vital energies, soothes the nerves, and brings good health quicker than any thing you can use.

If you slight a cold you think so little of may prove the forerunner of a complaint that may be fatal. Avoid this result by taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, the best of known remedies for colds, coughs, catarrh, bronchitis, incipient consumption and all other throat and lung diseases.

ments, but always anonymously, so that I have been unable to reply, had I deemed the animus of the communication honest enough to justify an honest response. That has not always been the case, but to-day I received a note from a person who speaks of himself as an aged clergyman, who signs his full name to the communication and seems to be genuinely concerned and friendly, although I scarcely can reconcile the "honest interest and true respect" which he has given apparently to the statement which forms the occasion of his protest. I should hardly feel true interest or true respect for a person whom I believed to be doing what the newspaper slip represents me to be doing—i. e., using the brief prominence of my position to encourage habits in dress and manners which are subversive of "whatsoever things are sure, lovely, honest and of good report." Such I believe the immodest dress of some few society women to be, and against such immodesty I have made that silent protest which it is every woman's right and duty to make, by having my own dress waists cut in a style which, so far as modesty is concerned, I should be quite willing to have all women to whom this style of dress is becoming and comfortable follow.

I approve of evening dress which shows the neck and arms. I do not approve of any dress which shows the bust. Between the neck and bust there is a line always to be drawn, and it is as clear to the most frivolous society woman as to the anatomist. This line need never be passed, and a fashionable woman's low-neck evening dress need never be immodest. If it is so it is because she prefers it to be so.

It is wholly false, so far as I have observed, that a "shocking scantity of waists and sleeves marks the gowns of society women." This is sadly and painfully true of a few "society women" and it is indeed shocking, nauseating, revolting and deserving of the utmost denunciation on the score of morality, beauty, health and many other considerations which good men and women should conspire to preserve and exact. There is need of a very few words on this subject and no argument. Any American woman can wear the waists of her evening dress up to the lobes of her ears if she likes. There is no queen to command her appearance in low corsage. She can also, alas! so contrive her dress that by the exposure of her person all true social ethics and esthetics as well are revolted. Between the two there is an appropriate, beautiful and modest mean, which all can, if they will, follow.—In a Letter to a Friend.

Don't Baby Your Boys.

Parents as a rule baby their boys too much. Heroic treatment may be hard to apply, but if experience is to teach us anything, it is this, that "an idle boy's brain is the devil's workshop." Instead of Willie, and Johnnie, and Frankie, let us have more Wills, and Johns and Franks. A little discipline, rightly applied, is worth more than a river of tears, and long-drawn sighs, when the boys are getting fast. Who ever heard of turning a colt out in the pasture because he happens to be wild. Yet every day we see boys turned loose because they are wild, and don't like to work. We believe that it is just as natural for boys to be wild as it is for ducks to swim. We also believe that boys are very rarely, if ever, killed by work. A number of years ago we lived with a city family with one child, a strong, healthy lad of seventeen. If either parent wanted anything from the next room or up stairs it was the young man who was kindly yet firmly asked to fetch it. He never whined, because he had been taught from boyhood up to mind,—to do as he was told, and that too at once. By discipline we do not mean thrashing, or to speak more correctly corporal punishment. We mean a few simple rules rigidly enforced. Many men are excellent disciplinarians in business, yet fail utterly in managing their own children. The boys are allowed to mingle with bad men and boys, and contract all sorts of bad habits. They should be put to work and made to earn their own living when not attending school, and not allowed to roam the streets and become impudent, shiftless, tricky, and many times dissipated, simply because their parents can afford to support them in idleness. In the older communities more often than in comparatively new towns is this criminal neglect on the part of parents to properly train their boys true. Military schools excel in the matter of discipline, and hold a correspondingly high place in public esteem for this one reason. Girls, too, are allowed to run the streets, learn a great many foolish things, and a very few good things, while their mothers slave in the kitchen or hire servants to even make up their daughter's bed. The real reason for the decrease of marriage and increase of divorce that has of late been discussed by moral reform thinkers all over the country will narrow right down to the fact that we have too many ladies and gentlemen and altogether too few men and women.—Ex.

"HOPE for a season bids the world farewell," when a man finds himself in the relentless grasp of neuralgia, but he smiles and takes heart and courage when his wife brings a bottle of Salvation Oil, the greatest cure on earth for pain.

ON the matter of dress fashionable society in Washington is divided into two classes—high and low. And, as in other concerns where these distinguishing terms prevail, the Highs are great on ceremony.

ELY'S Cream Balm cured me of catarrh of many years standing—restored my sense of smell. For colds in the head it works like magic.—E. H. SHERWOOD, National State Bank, Elizabeth, N. J. Easy to use. See adv.

OIL has been discovered in Egypt. The Mahdi found it, and it is turned.

SOME remarkable cures of deafness are recorded of Dr. Thomas' Eclectic Oil. Never fails to cure earache.

EVERY time the star-eyed goatlet of free trade opens his mouth the tariff tinker puts his foot in it.

I CAN safely recommend Ely's Cream Balm for the cure of catarrh, cold in the head, etc. Before I have used the first bottles I purchased I find myself cured. At times I could scarcely smell anything and had a headache most of the time.—HENRY LILLY, agent for the American Express Co., Grand Haven, Mich. Price 50 cts.

THEY count that day lost in Western Pennsylvania which does not witness the organization of two or three natural gas companies.

IMPAIRED VITALITY.—When you feel as if the vital powers were giving way, strength gone, spirits depressed, memory failing, appetite lost, exhaustion stealing over every sense and paralyzing every energy, then is the time to resort to that powerful ally of nature, Dr. Walker's Vegitable Vinegar Bitters. It soon works a glorious renovation in the system.

IN Washington society that old familiar song: "riding in the low-backed car," has given way to "waltzing in the low-necked dress."

Don't Eat in a Hurry.

A health journal says that people ought to take three-quarters of an hour for dinner. This is well if there is dinner enough to hold out so long. The penalty for hurrying meals, as most people do, is a grievous attack of dyspepsia. In such a case you will have to resort to Brown's Iron Bitters for cure, as did Mr. J. R. Pinkston, Shorter's Depot, Ala., who writes, "I found relief in Brown's Iron Bitters after years of suffering from dyspepsia."

For Sale.
